

Noble Fool Theatricals unveils new name, vision and exciting season for 2011

Noble Fool Theatricals, the premier professional theater in the Fox Valley area, is proud to announce exciting news and a new direction for their nonprofit organization. Beginning their calendar-year season in January 2011, Noble Fool will become Fox Valley Repertory; a name that represents the community they have grown their mission, vision, patron base, and academy students around.

"I assure you that you can still count on outstanding productions because we are not a new organization. Our staff is the same, dedicated team," says Artistic Director John Gawlik. "But after several years of growth, we simply wanted our name to represent the strong bond we have created with our patrons and community. We know this will help our patrons connect with our stories and begin referencing us as 'our theater' even more."

As the theater company in residence at Pheasant Run Resort for the seventh year, "we are focused on creating an engaging theater experience by producing shows that inspire our community to laugh, reflect and reconnect to moments in one's life," says Gawlik. And with the most extensive offering of academy programs, they hope to continue to inspire youth to explore their own lives through the performing arts.

Their expanding vision includes an annual three-week Summer Arts Festival, which will give local artists and fellow arts organizations the opportunity to perform in several venues in St. Charles. This will also include the area's first New Works Project, where a nationwide search will take place to premier staged readings.

Fox Valley Repertory's 2011 Subscription Series

Gawlik has programmed an exciting season with some of the top and emerging directors in Chicago.

"To celebrate, we're offering the best subscription rates and benefits in the area," says Gawlik. "Our 4-show packages are heavily discounted at $65/$80 per person. We're hoping the community will join us with this great introductory price."
